

MORE DINNERS SCHEDULED IN DEPAUW DRIVE

UNION BUILDING CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS GAINING MOMENTUM

The more kick-off dinners in Indiana have been scheduled by DePauw University alumni working for the school's Memorial Union Building fund campaign.

This nation-wide drive for a $475,000 union building to be erected in memory of DePauw's World War II dead is scheduled to end in June. While graduates are organizing campaign groups and carrying on extensive drive activities, students on the campus have formed soliciting committees that will reach all the men and women enrolled.

The scheduled meetings are planned for Feb. 21 in Shelbyville; Feb. 24, Kendallville; Feb. 25, Lafayette; March 6, Huntington, and March 7, Fort Wayne.

George Walker is chairman for the Shelby county group which will meet at 7:30 p. m. in the First Methodist church, Shelbyville. Louis H. Dirks, dean of men at DePauw, Willis B. Conner, Jr., state chairman for the drive, and Mr. Crouch will attend.

The district meeting in Kendallville will be attended by representatives from LaGrange, Steuben, DeKalb and Noble counties. District Chairman Dr. Samuel Yoder will preside, and special guests will be President Clyde E. Wilman of DePauw and Mr. Crouch.

Tippelago county alumni will meet Feb. 25 in the student union building at Purdue. Guests will include Crouch and Conner. Joe B. Longden of Lafayette is district chairman. Toastmaster will be Albert P. Stewart, musical director at Purdue University.

Elwood B. Dunlavy of North Manchester is district chairman over Kosciusko, Whitley, Wabash and Huntington counties, whose alumni will attend the district meeting in Huntington on March 6. County chairman is Gail B. Lancaster of Huntington.

DePauw graduates living in Allen county will meet in Fort Wayne on March 7. Co-chairmen for that area are Jerome McCully and Robert Bradley, both of Fort Wayne.

Students Prepare For Music Contest

Greencastle High School vocal students desiring to compete in the District Music Festival at the DePauw University School of Music on March 29 are preparing for an elimination contest to be held in the high school auditorium, February 25.

Miss Wanda Stewart, who is in charge of the vocal entrants from the high school, has announced that G. H. S. can enter four vocal solos and four vocal ensembles in the contest. Soloists who will compete in the elimination contest are: Treva Boesen, Ann Brooks, Barbara Drake, Marjorie Siddons, Dorette Shoemaker, Betty Hurst, Ann Hoffman, and Joyce Arnold soprano, and Nancy Ward, contralto. The vocal ensembles will consist of approximately thirty-five students.

In the instrumental solo division directed by Don Marketto, students who plan to enter the district contest include: Virginia Arnold, Lila Hanna, and Doyne McKeehan, piano; Dorette Shoemaker and Doris Elmore, clarinet; Richard Fulmer and Doyne McKeehan, cornet; Martha Harlan, and Don Marketto, Jr., trombone.

20 Years Ago IN GREENCASTLE

The DePauw enrollment for the second semester was 1,541. The Tiger Cubs defeated the Sullivan high school net team, 32 to 26. The Fortnightly Club met with Mrs. F. C. Tilden. Miss Alice Thompson was in Chicago on a buying trip.

Wet-Dry Issue Near Showdown

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 5.—(INS)—The administration risked a showdown today on the wet and dry issue.

The House public morals committee prepared for a meeting this afternoon on two bills concerned with the traffic in intoxicants. Only legislators and newspapermen were invited to attend.

The measures slated for discussion are the precinct local option rebel bill and the administration-sponsored bill designed to divorce liquor from politics.

Inasmuch as both drys and wets are members of the morals committee, a divided report is expected on the option bill. The option bill, sponsored by two G. O. P. representatives—Mauro A. Starr, of Connersville, and Dudley W. Gleason, Jr., of Angola, provides for local option by precinct election through majority vote. The first election would be held in 1948 and thereafter every four years.

The administration's liquor reform measure was introduced by Representatives George W. Healey, of Bloomington, Republican floor leader, and Jess C. Andrew, Republican of West Point. Provisions include:

Eliminate the beer and liquor monopolies by wholesalers by permitting any qualified person to obtain a wholesaler's license. Ban use of political influence in obtaining a license. Penalize concerns that attempt to intimidate license holders in an effort to force them to handle or refuse to handle any certain brands of alcoholic beverages.

Forbid a tavern or package store license in a strictly residential neighborhood.

Re-enact a 1941 law provision whereby an applicant denied a license may appeal to the Marion County Superior Court.

To include club licenses in allocating one tavern license to each 1,000 population.

Two other bills, linked similarly, may be considered on second reading in the House today. They are the rebel measure to restore the primary for nomination of United States senator, governor and state officials and the administration's bill to reform the convention system. The latter has been passed by the Senate.

Both bills were reported to the House by its elections committee "without recommendations" yesterday.

There is every prospect that administration lawmakers will move to postpone indefinitely the primary bill, while the primary representatives may seek to amend the convention measure in a manner embarrassing to the G. O. P. state organization.

Among these amendments discussed are one to prevent any state or party official from serving as a convention delegate and another to eliminate all proxies at state conventions.

The primary bill also was sponsored by two G. O. P. representatives—Laurence D. Baker, of Kendallville, and Mart Smith, of Williams. The convention measure was authored by Senators John W. Van Ness, of Valparaiso, Republican majority leader, and Clyde R. Black, Republican of Logansport.

The convention measure would

'TEEN-AGE BOYS HELD IN THEFT OF TWO AUTOS

STOLE CARL BECK'S CAR AT BAINBRIDGE LATE MON- DAY NIGHT

Two 'teen-age boys, Robert Lee Fuller, 16, and Frank Marr, Jr., 17, of Mars Hill, were in the Putnam county jail Wednesday pending court arraignment for stealing two automobiles.

The boys stole a car in Mars Hill and wrecked it near Bainbridge Monday. That night, about 11:30 o'clock, according to the sheriff's office, the pair took Carl Beck's Oldsmobile out of the garage at the Beck home in Bainbridge.

They took off in it but also came to grief in their second theft as they ran into the rear of a state highway truck north of Danville in Hendricks county. Authorities there conducted a search for the boys who took to the fields and woods after their second wreck. They were finally apprehended and taken to the jail at Danville.

Deputy sheriff Paul Grimes was notified and went to Danville and returned the boys to Greencastle for legal action.

Gas Pressure Is Low Again

Greencastle gas users were short again Wednesday morning. Many had a hard time "perking" coffee for breakfast, while others using it for heating, were also short.

Type setting machines in The Daily Banner office were short during the morning hours, thus, cutting our reading matter materially today. There was absolutely nothing we could do about it, other than to hope for warmer weather and a more plentiful supply.

The Northern Indiana Public Service Co., cut down users in South Bend, due to a short supply.

It would appear that the Gas Co. has over-sold its production in Greencastle, and this should have been taken into account last summer before many homes were converted to gas from coal burners. It was explained here today that the local company had no jurisdiction over converting to gas until last December, as prior to that time it was in the hands of the Public Service Commission only. A two inch pipe line feeds Greencastle from the main line south of Cloverdale. It is hoped to double that line this summer, and if this is the case, the supply here will become four times its present amount.

In the meantime, all that can be done is to make out with what we have, it was said at the company offices.

Ritual Team To Clinton Thursday

The members of the Uniformed Ritualistic team representing Cassell C. Tucker Post 58, of The American Legion will be making their thirteenth public appearance when they go to Clinton tomorrow evening to initiate a large class of Legionnaires there.

Starting almost a year ago as part of the public relations program of the local Post, the Initiation team has made a very favorable reputation throughout the Legion's Sixth District of which the Greencastle Post is a member. More than a thousand veterans of World War II have been initiated into the Legion by the local team since the team was first organized.

The Initiation team is composed of Cecil Brown, Paul Canary, John Cartwright, Edward Coffman, John Fisher, Fred Pease and Eli Williams.

In addition to the Initiation team the uniformed color guard composed entirely of World War II veterans, will participate in the ceremonies at Clinton Thursday evening. Members of the color guard are Eldon Boswell, Frank Cartwright, Dick Drake, Firman Grimes, Billy Grimes, James Huestis and Norrie Tempelman.

A RECORDING WAS MADE HERE LAST WEEK

Improve After Auto Accident

Mrs. Clark Herbert and daughter are improving at their home from an auto accident Saturday morning north of the Monon crossing on the Manhattan and Greencastle road caused by slick roads when just enough snow fell to make the roads dangerous. Their car turned completely and rolled over an embankment on the west side of the road, turning over and landing on the wheels, causing quite a bit of damage to the car. Mrs. Herbert and daughter were picked up by Bob McVey and Mrs. Long and taken to the office of Dr. Tennis. Later, they were taken to the hospital for X-rays.

NOTICE

On Friday, February 7th, at 2:30 o'clock, in the Red Cross Production Room, third floor court house, a picture will be taken. All who have been working on Red Cross sewing or knitting are urged to be present for this picture.

BELLE UNION SCENE OF TRAFFIC MISHAP

Property damage of about $75 occurred when a school bus skidded into a grain truck on the Main street in Belle Union shortly before 4 a. m. Tuesday.

According to state policeman George Heck, who investigated the mishap, the school bus was driven by Earl Snodgrass, Greencastle Route 2. He was enroute to the Belle Union school to pick up his student riders. A truck, owned by Morris Glenn Ogles, was parked on the north side of the street.

Snodgrass pulled over to give a car approaching from the west ample clearance. Heck said he applied his brakes and skidded into the truck. Damage was estimated at $50 to the bus and about $25 to the truck.

Mercury Falls To Zero Mark

This community had its coldest weather of the winter at 3 a. m. Wednesday when the temperature dropped to the zero mark and it was still zero at 8 a. m.

Tuesday's maximum temperature was only 9 degrees above as Greencastle and Putnam county shivered in the latest frigid wave of the season. The minimum was 1 above.

Clearing weather was forecast for Wednesday and relief from the cold was indicated by Thursday with cloudy and warmer atmospheric conditions predicted.

The midwest could not gloat too much today over the slight rise in the mercury. The weather Bureau reported a new mass of cold air forming in northwestern Canada which it said was headed for the midwest and eventually the east. This cold front, if it follows the route expected, should reach the midwest sometime late tomorrow.

Winston Churchill in June, 1942, presided President Roosevelt to link a plan for invasion or Normandy in July, 1943 and substitute the North African campaign possibly prolonging the war, Martin Sommers, foreign editor of the Saturday Evening Post, charged today.

Sommers based his charges, presented in the Post, on conversations with high American military leaders. He said that Secretary of State George C. Marshall, then chief of staff, was the leading American advocate of the 1943 Normandy invasion plan and the No. 1 opponent of the strategy advocated by Churchill.

"Today," Sommers reported, "though they do not say so publicly as yet, some of our ablest military leaders believe that the North African campaign and the whole ghastly Italian campaign were unnecessary and that the dawn of V-E Day was delayed—with all that means in terms of loss of life and national treasure—by our failure to attack across the channel in 1943."

Three Killed In Crossing Crash

KINGSBURG, Cal., Feb. 5.—(UP)—Fire-blackened cars of the Southern Pacific's proud orange and red streamliner "San Joaquin Daylight" were hauled today from the scene of a collision with an oil-laden truck which caused three deaths and injuries to 65 other persons.

Searched foliage, charred railroad ties and scattered bits of burned baggage littered the roadbed where the locomotive's snub nose snatched up the trailer of a stalled fuel truck yesterday and dragged it down the track.

As the train stopped, jets of flame spewed against the windows where 263 passengers looked out in horror. Among them, but unharmed, was Amos Alonzo Stagg, patriarch of American football coaches who was on his way from Los Angeles to Stockton.

The explosion and swirling inferno of ignited oil killed George Schneckenberger, the engineer; Ernest M. Comer, the fireman, both of Bakersfield, Calif., and Mrs. Sara E. Badgley, an aged passenger from Dunsmuir, Cal.

Schneckenberger apparently threw on the locomotive's brakes before he died. If he hadn't, officials said, the fiery train might have continued for miles across the plain—with other trainmen unable to reach the cab because of the flames and firefighters left helplessly behind in Kingsburg. A steam locomotive has no "dead man's throttle" to halt it automatically.

The driver of the truck, Philip Lee Mayer, 21, of Fresno, Cal., who escaped injury, claimed the automatic wigwag signal at the grade crossing was not working when he started across the tracks. Southern Pacific officials disputed his claim.

Early today, 47 people still were in San Joaquin Valley hospitals, mostly suffering from minor burns. One of them, Kay Hansen, Pasadena, was injured critically and was not expected to live.

TRUMAN SEEKS TO QUELL GOP TARIFF REVOLT

APPEALS TO CONGRESS TO SUPPORT FOREIGN TRADE PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. (UP)—President Truman today sought to quell an incipient GOP revolt against tariff-cutting. He appealed to Congress for "genuinely national bipartisan" support of the administration's foreign trade program.

In his first annual report to Congress on U. S. participation in the United Nations, Mr. Truman called for the same bipartisan support of the country's foreign trade policies that has been given its international political program.

The report coincided with increasingly vocal Republican opposition to the administration's reciprocal trade program. Legislation has been introduced calling for postponement of the forthcoming tariff-reduction negotiations with 17 other countries at Geneva.

The President's 230-page report contained an optimistic review of UN progress during the first year of the fledgling organization. It credited the United States with playing a vital role in the UN's growth to date.

In a letter transmitting the report, Mr. Truman cited major UN developments—especially the "general Assembly's demonstration of its power to influence the policies of nations and to bring about greater understanding among them."

But he warned of grave dangers ahead and of the possibility that current hope and confidence in UN could be "betrayed and lost."

The President then indicated the growing concern of himself and other administration leaders over Republican attacks on the country's international economic policies.

Mr. Truman reiterated that the U. S. policy is to support the UN "with all the resources that we possess." But he warned:

"Our policy... must be given effective practical application on a genuinely national bipartisan basis in every activity of the United Nations."

"We must pursue without hesitation bipartisan policies of economic cooperation with the rest of the world in such matters as economic reconstruction and development and the expansion of world trade and employment."

Mr. Truman said the U. S. responsibilities in the UN are particularly heavy.

GEN. MCARTHUR IS HAILED AS MAN OF YEAR

TOKYO (UPI)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur was America's "man of the year" in 1946, in the opinion of editors of many leading Asiatic newspapers.

A survey of newspapers in Japan, China, Philippines, Siam and other Asiatic nations shows that scores of editors agree with an evaluation of MacArthur's work during 1946 as published in the Manila Times.

MacArthur merits the title of "man of the year" for 1946, so far as Asia is concerned, the Manila Times said in a leading editorial, because:

"He has made Japan, the one country that hated America more than all her enemies combined, one of the few countries on earth where America is not slandered, vilified or ridiculed, and where her motives are not impugned—because to the Japanese MacArthur is the embodiment of America."

Asiatic, disillusioned by decades of unfortunate experiences in relations with the western nations, were profoundly cynical when MacArthur took over as supreme allied commander in Tokyo. Many editors, from Batavia to Bangkok, and Manila to Shanghai and Seoul, to whom this correspondent talked, forecast eventual failure for the allied occupation of Nippon.

The general feeling was that MacArthur either would try to exploit Japan as a virtual colony or that, by yielding to "American sentimentality," would make possible a "recrudescence of Nipponese militarism."

As the months of 1946 went by and neither disaster came to pass, MacArthur's popularity marched steadily forward. The Manila Times called attention to MacArthur's "concrete and irrevocable achievements" and added:

"From the day he landed at Atsugi airport, with something more than a battalion of airborne infantry, in the midst of a fully armed force of 3,500,000 trained, fanatic enemy soldiers, to begin the occupation of a land of 73,000,000 hostile people, MacArthur carried his burden alone, fought his fight alone, steered a tortuous and difficult course alone, and finally, achieved the impossible—alone. "Without a single incident, with out the loss of a man in what might have been bloody encounters, without once being forced to call on his troops to enforce his policies, he brought peace to a distracted, shattered land."

"As a result, he has been able, within the year, to do in Japan what a four-power administration has not been able to do in any one of the four zones in Germany: to make the allied occupation a success from the viewpoints of both the conquerors and the conquered."

"He has impressed the fact of the victory on the minds of the Japanese; the fact of futility of resistance, far more effectively than the allies had ever done it; Germany. There were never any 'were-wolves' in Japan, never any attacks on occupation troops—though the 'dragon societies' were far more numerous and powerful than their German counterparts."

Belle Union, 43-Clinton Center 36
 Although it was plenty cold Tuesday night, the Belle Union basketball team "warmed up" enough to beat the Clinton Center high school net tossers, 43 to 36, down on the B. U. floor. The winners led by two points at the half, 20 to 18. Bob Zeigler, man, who was injured two weeks ago, returned to the B. U. team Tuesday evening and aided his team in its victory.

Seeking Facts On Neff Family

352 North Pearl Street
Hagerstown, Indiana
February 1, 1947

To the Editor of the Green castle Banner:

Dear Sir,

I am, with several other interested persons, writing you in an effort to secure some information about the late General Andrew Jackson Neff who was sometime resident in Greencastle and who established there the Greencastle Times.

1. We are desiring to learn when Mr. Neff came to Greencastle, when he established the Times and when he made sale of the paper he founded. We suppose it was a weekly.

2. Andrew Jackson Neff died in 1904 in Kansas City, Missouri. Did any newspaper in Greencastle give space in the paper with an account of his life and family? Is that issue of 1904 on file in Greencastle, and if so, where can it be found?

3. Andrew Jackson Neff was living in Greencastle in 1880. In that year his father, George North Neff, died at Greencastle. If Andrew Jackson Neff was publishing the Times in 1880, is there a file available containing an account of his father's life, death and place of burial, (an obituary perhaps)? Or if General A. J. Neff was not printing the Times if any account appeared in the paper being published that year?

4. Is there a county history of Putnam county and if so does it contain any account of or reference to Andrew Jackson Neff and his father, George North Neff?

I realize that we have asked a great favor of you in securing any information you may under the four heads above. We are preparing a manuscript on the Neff family and of the George North Neff and General Andrew J. Neff, his son, for the archives of the historical and genealogical department of the Indiana State Library.

I will appreciate an answer to this letter on behalf of myself and interested kinsmen and friends at your earliest opportunity.

Andrew Jackson Neff was a man of ability and energy. He practiced law in Hartford City, was a member of the legislature from Winchester, published there the Winchester Herald and at the beginning of the Civil War organized the 84th Indiana Regiment and became its Colonel seeing service in Tennessee and at the battle of Chickamauga. He was made a brevet brigadier general at the close of the war. He also founded the Maryville, Tenn. Times. He had 6 sons and 1 daughter. The eldest son, Jay H. Neff, was a lawyer, newspaper publisher, attended DePauw University. He was mayor one term of Kansas City, Missouri. The school of journalism at the University of Missouri is named after him.

HUNGRY LAD TURNED IN DELICATESSEN WINDOW

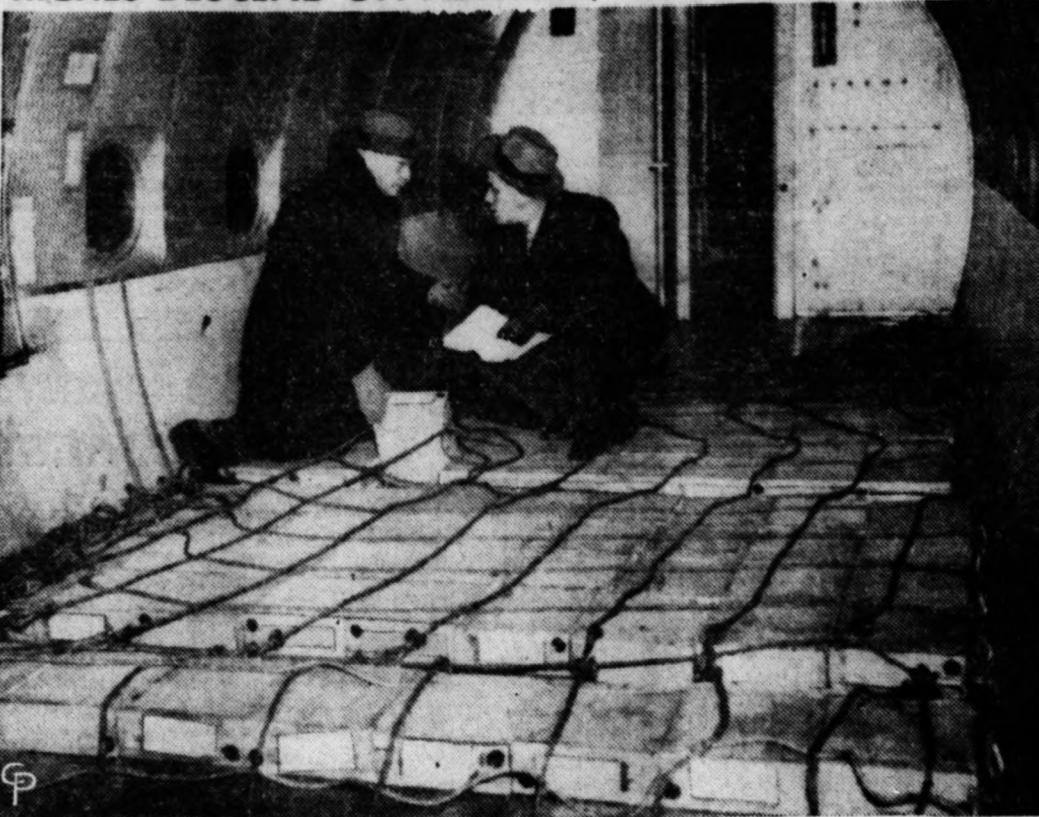

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Back in 1944, Victor Eversum used to gaze hungrily in the window of the delicatessen store owned by Roland Wussow.

Wussow, who liked youngsters pretty well, told the seven-year-old lad that when meat and other delicacies became easier to get, he would treat him to a real feast in the store window. Recently, Wussow, a man of his word, paid off. The youngster climbed in the window and fell to.

Here's what he polished off: one-half pound of potato salad, a similar amount of cole slaw, and a half pound of vegetable salad, with a half-pound of baked beans—washed down by a quart of milk. For dessert, he had nine cookies and a handful of candy.

While rubber boats came into prominence during the late war, their use is now new, for 104 years ago, John C. Fremont and Jim Bridger launched a rubber boat on the Great Salt Lake and did considerable exploring.
